INNOVATION

without the intimidation.

The most difficult part of trying a new skin rejuvenation or body contouring technique is often the anticipation itself. What do I want to change? Will I be embarrassed during treatment? Will the new look be drastic or subtle?

“There are important issues to consider when deciding on a procedure,” explains Diana Grassfield, Medical Spa Director of Skin Deep Medical Spa in The Glen Town Center. “It’s critical to have someone take the time to understand your concerns and priorities beforehand.” The medical spa specializes in non-surgical cosmetic procedures, even though it is under the direction of Dr. Steven Bloch, a Board Certified Plastic Surgeon. Oprah, Discovery Health Channel and even the FDA tap into his expertise on techniques ranging from laser hair removal and Thermage™ to BOTOX® and Restylane®.

One new treatment available at the medical spa is VelaSmooth™, which reduces the appearance of cellulite. “It is a very soothing experience, and the results are fantastic,” says Manager Beth Grassfield. Another popular choice among clients is Fraxel® Laser Skin Resurfacing that improves skin texture and reduces fine to moderate lines and wrinkles. “The great thing about Fraxel is that there are astonishing improvements with minimal downtime,” says Grassfield.

Beyond face and body treatments, clients also have easy access to the trend setting services of Pascal Pour Elle, one of Chicago’s premier salons that shares the luxurious space as the spa. “This provides a one-stop experience, allowing clients to go from a hair cut to BOTOX® injections seamlessly and discretely,” adds Grassfield.
